Foreword

Our home, school, community, and the mountains that circle us will always be a part of us and remembered with nostalgia. Our high school has occupied an important place in our lives. In this fourth volume of Airmont we hope to preserve, through words and pictures, a memory of our high school life.

EVERY-DAY HAPPENINGS TWIRP SEASON HOMECOMING BANQUET PROM COMMENCEMENT; MARSHALS MR. AND MISS M. A. H. S. KING AND QUEEN OF HEARTS

We Treasure Both The Routine

We shall remember and treasure as peak experiences both the ordinary, day-by-day happenings and the special events of our school life.

School opened with no new teachers on the faculty. Principal H. M. Finch (right) gives instructions to Mrs. Ronald Boyles and Mrs. Watt Shuford who returned to the system after absence.

Returning students quickly settle down to routine work. Joe Curtis, Dieneke Nieuwenhuis, Judy Coe, and Carolyn Jacobs use library material.

Libby York and National Guardsman Charlie Young hoist the new flag presented to the school by the Ladies Auxiliary of the V.F.W. Miss Frances Young (center), practice librarian from Appalachian, meets assistants, Sarah Doggett and Wilma King.

And The Special Events

Night work is often necessary to complete the annual. Ann Allred and Miss Simpson (top) and Sarah Springthorpe and Mary Nell Parker read proofs.

The year ends with exams for student (Kay Goins) and teacher (Miss Annie Thomas).

Some Special Over Looks

Twirp Season

Each year M. A. H. S. boys look forward to the second week in February when twirp (the woman is requested to pay) season is observed. This means that the girls must pay all bills and extend all the courtesies that are ordinarily the responsibilities of the boys. But twirp season has an advantage for the girls also, for it enables them to ask that dream man for a date without being frowned on by Emily Post. A mock trial is held to try and punish all offenders of the rules and regulations. All the fun is culminated in a formal dance given the last night of twirp season.

Beth Ashby, Edwin Goad, and James Sitison (standing) Sarah Springthorpe and Tommy Kerr (seated)¹ find that crime does not pay as they wear aprons and black hose and carry books in suitcases or little brothers' wagons.

Represents Pure Fun

Homecoming

A big parade; the last football game of the '54 season; a half time crowded with a super band show, sponsors for senior football players, and the crowning of the queen-all these make homecoming a spectacular success.

Five girls were elected by the student body from the fifteen candidates nominated by the football players. In a second election the students chose from the five a queen whose identity was not announced until she was crowned at half time.

Candidates for homecoming queen ready to be in the parade are (bottom) Sandra Midkiff, Peggy Vogler, (top) Elizabeth York, Sarah Doggett, Lucy Sydnor.

Faculty members enjoying the senior banquet are Mrs. Anne Pruitt, Mr. E. W. McLeod, Jr., Mrs. Tom Mackie, Mrs. H. M. Finch, Mr. Finch, Mrs. L.B. Pendergraph, Mr. Pendergraph.

Activity At Annual Banquet

The Senior Banquet and the Junior-Senior Prom high light the spring activities and climax the most interesting years of school life.

In their gayest moods and loveliest clothes, seniors and faculty members gather at Reeves Y. M. C. A. for the banquet planned by and for the seniors. Music, comedy, and the awarding of silly superlatives marked the 1954 edition of this long anticipated event.

Prom Gives Enchanted Evening

Following the Senior Banquet, the Junior-Senior Prom is held at the Y. Results of many hours of work by junior committees are seen in the decorations, refreshments, music, and the smooth-running of the dance. Cinderella's enchanted evening had nothing on the 1954 Prom which brought enchantment to countless juniors and seniors.

After the dance was officially over, many students went on to a series of parties ending with breakfast at the hotel, at someone's home, or at a mountain picnic.

Dancing to the theme of "Some Enchanted Evening," real live Cinderellas and Prince Charmings made a colorful and gay figure.

To Juniors And Seniors

Leon Davis helps Linda Moseley into the "Cinderella" carriage.

Margaret Jones and Dayle Phillips set the pattern for Miss Eleanor Collins and Mr. Ramey as they dance to a lively tune.

Graduation Is The Height

Commencement brings thoughts both happy and sad. Seniors are happy to have successfully completed their high school work, but sad to be ending this phase of their life.

Virgil Christian and Jo Ann Palmer receive coveted Shirley Peters Citizenship awards from Mr. Finch.

Commencement, 1954- the juniors stand to be installed by Principal H. M. Finch as the 1955 seniors.

To Which We All Aspire

The King And Crowned At

KING OF HEARTS

SMITH HOLCOMB

The 1954 winter season was enlivened by the King and Queen of Hearts contest, sponsored by the Tri-Hi-Y and climaxed by a formal dance. The highlight of the Sweetheart dance was the crowning of the unannounced King and Queen of Hearts.

Candidates: Worrell Kurtz Owen Shelton Leon Davis

Queen Of Hearts Are Sweetheart Dance

QUEEN OF HEARTS

Candidates: Debby Hauser Shirley Clifton Juanita Dix

A committee of Tri-Hi-Y girls selected a candidate from each class on the basis of scholarship and popularity. A carton for each candidate, with his picture, was placed outside the library and at a local drugstore. Students voted by penny votes. Profits were used for the World Service project of the Tri-Hi-Y.

Administration Faculty Classroom Work

Excellent Administration Makes

An experienced, able, and interested administration sets the tone for our smooth-running school. Superintendent, principal, and five board members together represent 150 years of selfless service to our school system—a record few communities can equal; a record we view with pride and gratitude.

Superintendent, L. B. Pendergraph and Dr. Martin, school board chairman, enter the building.

Many office details are necessary to the efficient operation of a school system. At right Superintendent L. B. Pendergraph looks over correspondence with Mrs. Juanita Barber, secretary.

Principal H.M.Finch presides over the first high school faculty meeting of the year.

ARCHITECTS

The inscription in the lobby of our building pays tribute to our administration.

The cafeteria is one of the special joys of our new building—for both food and fun. We owe our excellent food and quick service to these ladies (seated, left to right) Mrs. Kate Jackson, Mrs.Lucy Beamer, (standing) Mrs. Selena Moxley and Mrs. Paul Speight.

English Department Offers Variety

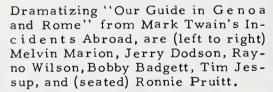

MRS. MARY NEAL English

Proficiency in English is the key to our acquisition of knowledge and skill and our enjoyment of leisure. Six instructors teach twenty English classes, including journalism and commercial English. Grammar, literature, written and oral expression, appreciation, reasoning ability all are a part of our English courses.

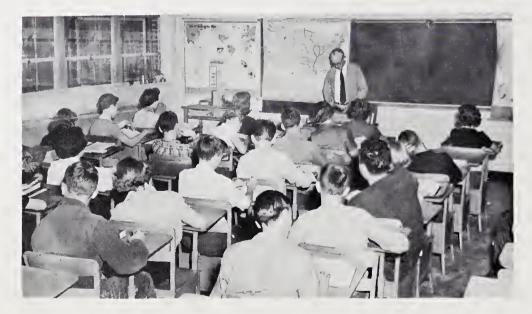

After making book reports, members of Mrs.Neal's English III class prepare to fill in their reading cards.

MISS ANNIE THOMAS English

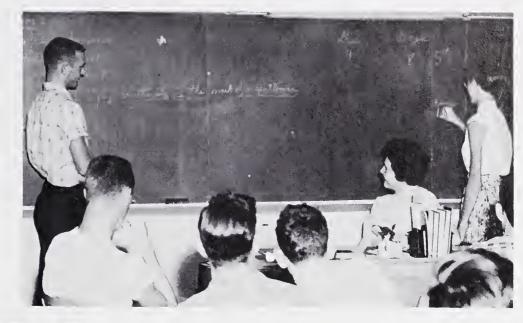

MR. WALLACE SHELTON English, Coaching

Coach Shelton checks the roll of his English II class in the lull before the hard work starts.

In Approach And In Personnel

MISS EVA HOLDER English, Journalism

Sentence analyses drill takes on new life in senior English with a lively baseball game between the boys and the girls. Mary Louise Hatcher scores a run by batter Jerry Nester as catcher Lynda Pell calls "correct".

Betsy Levering checks her speech for the World Peace Speaking Contest with Mrs. Mary Neal, her advisor. Betsy's speech won her first place in the 1954 district contest, an all-expense-paid trip to New York and Washington, D. C., and a television appearance in Greensboro.

1954 High Spots received a first class rating from the National Scholastic Press Association. Gayle Dobson, editor; Sallie Ann Carroll, and Barbara Fowler study the score book announcing their rating.

Foreign Languages Give Us Broader Views

> Foreign languages offer much more than a technical knowledge of Spanish or Latin. From them we also gain knowledge of other cultures and ways and of our interdependence on them. From them, too, we gain a deeper understanding of our own language.

> Two teachers conduct six classes in foreign languages-four in Latin and two in Spanish. Latin and Spanish clubs make these classes fun as well as work.

MISS ADA HAYMORE Latin, English

Though Latin may be a dead language, Joe Johnson agrees it is quite interesting to a living American student.

Physical Education Reaches More Students

MR.SAM MOIR Civics, Physical Ed. Coaching

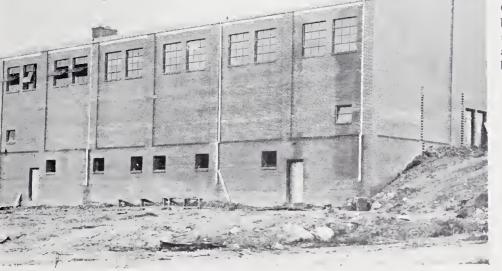

"This is a relief from sitting still!" Linda Worrell and Louise Morris prepare to jump the ball held by Coach Moir as other members of the Physical Ed. class look on.

Physical education entered our curriculum this year as a required subject for freshmen. Two instructors work with the four classes.

With physical education reaching more students and the new gym finally in use, we add another department to our school.

Coaches Shelton and Moir hope the new physical education setup will not only add more trophies but also benefit all students.

A long awaited dream came true when the new gym was first opened for basketball practice after Christmas.

History Department Offers Help

The history department offers eight classes taught by four instructors. The knowledge, understanding, and practice in thinking, evaluating, and in using supplementary materials gained from the social sciences are invaluable.

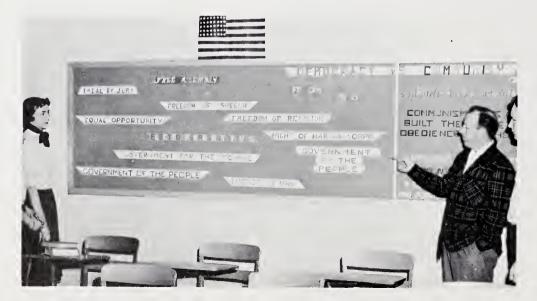

History III sent George Wright and Wanda Willard to the library for materials.

MRS. LAVINIA MACKIE Spanish, History Civics

"I'll show you where it is!" Jimmy Hale and Jane Welch, members of Mrs. Mackie's world history class, discuss the location of Constantinople.

With American history students Gerry Brannock and Jack Hall, Mr. Ramey examines the bulletin board contrasting Democracy and Communism.

Through Understanding Of Problems

MRS. KATE BARRINGER History, Civics World Problems

Students in Mrs. Barringer's civics class are well informed on current news. Catching up on the latest are James Monroe and Gaynell Jones.

Carl Badgett and Jerry Nester, history IV students and future tycoons, check stock investments in a New York newspaper.

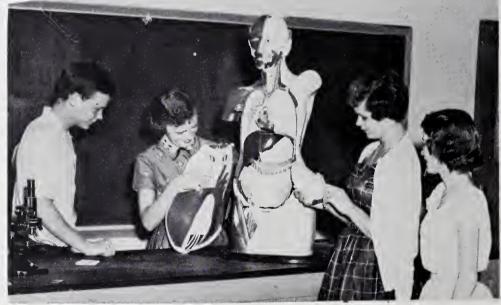

Shirley Perry won the 1954 D. A. R. history cup presented by Mount Airy Chapter of the D. A. R. for the best paper on a North Carolinian's contribution to America. Shirley's paper was on Edward R. Murrow.

Biology, Chemistry, Physics, Radio - T.V., Aviation,

Physics—oh! what fun! "Mr. Steed will that experiment really work?" Carl Badgett, Yancey Beamer, and Sarah Doggett watch a barometer in a bell-jar.

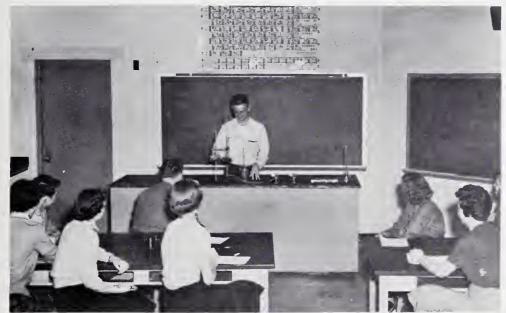

MR. FRANK STEED Biology, Physics, Coaching

-All Are Offered In Our Science Department

To biology, chemistry, physics, and aviation, the science department this year added a threehour course in radio-television. The new vocational course is taught by Mr. Robert M. Hiatt.

Glenn Simmons, a member of the radio-television course, is intent upon repairing this radio.

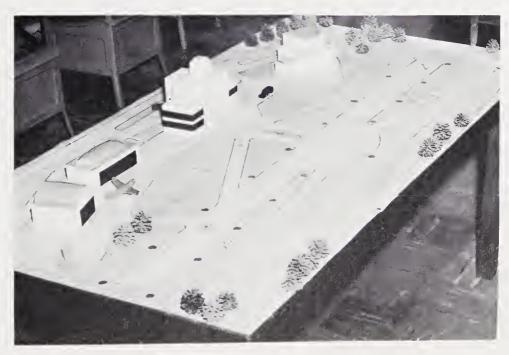

MRS. LORRAINE McKINNEY Biology, Chemistry, Arithmetic

MR. ARNOLD RAMEY History, English Aviation, Physical Ed.

There Are Classes For

The math department consists of four teachers offering thirteen classes in arithmetic, algebra, geometry, and trigonometry. In order that no one's math

In order that no one's math needs will be overlooked, the commercial department offers, in addition, courses in bookkeeping and business math.

Freshmen find arithmetic has many pitfalls. However, this line of figures is not difficult to add when Thomas McHone has Mrs. McKinney to help.

MRS. VERA THOMAS Algebra, Arithmetic

Mrs. Thomas shows Vera Carl, her daughter and a member of her algebra I $\,\prime\,$ class, the correct graphing method.

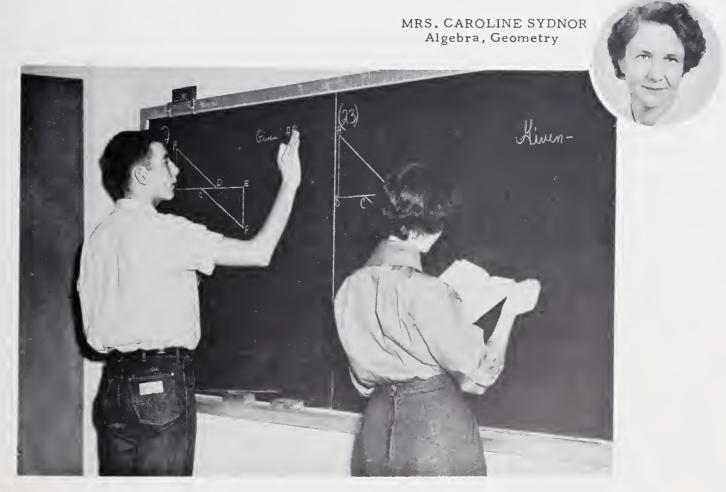

All Our Math Needs

MR. H. M. FINCH Trigonometry

Sarah Springthorpe and Linda Cox study the chart which shows different occupations to which trigonometry may lead them.

"Geometry is not hard for us." agree Bud Oliver and Belle Harkrader as they prove lines parallel.

Home Economics Aids Pleasant Living

MRS. VALERIA SHUFORD Home Economics

Shop Work Gives Practical Experience

The vocational shop department offers two shop classes, one mechanical drawing, and a three-hour carpentry class. This year the boys in carpentry have worked on the new gymnasium located next to the shop building.

The boys in Mr. Williams' carpentry class work eagerly toward the completion of our gym.

MR.GEORGE WILLIAMS Shop

Commercial Courses Prepare Office Workers

MRS. ANNE PRUITT Bookkeeping, Typing, Office Practice

The commercial department offers a varied program designed to prepare students for jobs. Three instructors hold classes in typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, office practice and business training. Noncommercial students may take courses in the department as space permits.

MRS. MARY BOYLES

Typing

Carolyn Inman looks on as Lucy Sydnor demonstrates the helpfulness of an adding machine in office practice class.

MISS ELEANOR SHUMAKER Shorthand, Business Training

Mrs. Boyles, instructor, gives Carolyn Inman expert assistance on a typing difficulty.

Music Develops The Aesthetic; Well Stocked Library Rounds Out All Departments

MR. CHARLES JOHNSON Band, Glee Club

The music department schedules two classes for glee club and one for band. Two periods are used for work with elementary school band students. Many extra hours of work put in with afternoon and evening practices insure performances of an excellent, professional caliber,

Over 4,800 books, fifty magazines, five newspapers, helpful assistants, interested librarian, pleasant surroundings, and work atmosphere-these are combined in a library that supplements all other departments of our school.

Student Council Election Activity

From a list of eligible juniors the student body chose four candidates to run for president. Each of the four candidates then chose a vicepresident to run on his ticket. A campaign manager was also selected by each candidate. A busy week of poster making, speeches and a special assembly program followed. In the 1954 elections the candidates were so evenly supported that three run-offs were necessary. In the final election the candidate and his running mate receiving the majority of votes became president and vice-president of the student body.

The Student Council is composed of a representative and an alternate from each classroom and the presidents of our school clubs. To remain in the council an average of 85 on all scholastic work and 90 in citizenship is required. At the end of each quarter a qualifications committee checks on eligibility of each council member.

Furnishes Peak Excitement

Care of the building is a major activity of the Student Council. During the week the cleanup committee checks on the assigned areas of each homeroom. At the Council meeting on Tuesday mornings a report is made of the condition of each homeroom area, and awards are given to those homerooms which best-cleaned their area.

Council members also supervise traffic in the halls and cafeteria, issue passes to library assistants and High Spots and Airmont staff members and appoint hall monitors to check students' hall permits. The senior committee of the Council tries students for disobeying school rules.

President Libby York discusses a council problem with the senior trial committee including Margaret Joyce, Gerry Brannock, James Reynolds, Sandra Shelton, Jerry Nester and Leon Davis.

Journalism, made up of selected seniors who have done superior work in English, offers both text book work and the laboratory work of publishing eight issues of the school newspaper. The editor and associate editor, elected by vote of the junior class, appoint other staff officers. The class meets daily, working on raising funds; assigning, writing, correcting and rewriting stories; planning layout; proofing—all the details that are unknown to the readers but necessary in publishing a first class paper. Editor George Wright reminds staff members of the leads to feature in their news stories. High Spots staff includes (1st row, left to right) Libby York, Nelda Hill. (2nd row) Linda Cox, Sylvia Hantzopoulos, Lou Ann Holloway. (3rd row) Leon Davis, Jewell Wagoner, Charlotte Robertson. (Back row) Miss Holder, Libby Finch.

As publication deadline nears, staff members often meet with the advisor at night for extra work. Charlotte Robertson, Miss Holder, and Libby Finch work out some knotty problems at Miss Holder's apartment.

As soon as eager students settle down with their copies of High Spots, staff members deliver papers to advertisers. Jewell Wagoner, Charlotte Robertson, Linda Cox, and Nelda Hill leave for town.

Airmont Staff Works

As material for our annual is happily sent to the publisher, work is already beginning on next year's edition. The nucleus of a staff is formed and plans made for the new book. The staff photographer stays busy getting pictures of spring activities. By fall the paceaccelerates madly with ads, subscriptions, more pictures, cutlines, layouts, typing-a thousand and one details no yearbook owner will ever know went into the making.

A brief peace follows the rush to meet the publisher's deadline before the staff corrects proofs, gets out letters to our advertisers, collects final payments, and finally distributes the finished product to eager students.

Library Assistants Give

Assistants who help to keep the library running smoothly are: Charlotte Robertson, Sylvia Hantsopoulos, Bettie Gunnell, Pat Tickle, Carol Sue Dobson, Melvina Clifton, Eddie Bondurant, Margaret Jarrell, Wilma King, Marilyn Petrick, Sarah Doggett, Sarah Springthorpe, and Dean Brown.

"Everything happens activity period!" Marilyn Petrick files catalog cards while Sylvia Hantzopoulos checks out abook for Jerry Dodson.

"Oh boy, new books!" First period assistants Carol Dobson, Melvina Clifton, and Sarah Springthorpe eagerly open the shipment of new books.

"Try this one." Eddie Bondurant shelves carded books as DeanBrown helps Minnie May Adkins find a book.

Valuable Aid To School

"Sign here, please."

- "Here is your lav. permit."
- "Let's check the card catalog."

"I'll find it for you."

These helpful remarks, and many more, are heard any period from the library assistants.

These students give up their study periods to check books in and out, help students find materials, file catalog cards, sign slips, perpare new books, type, inventory books— do all the countless jobs that make the library run smoothly.

The thirteen 1954-55 assistants represent 24 years library service. Seven new students joined the staff; five are serving their third year; one, her second.

Overlook On Help

In addition to their many other duties, our first period pages are responsible for getting the absentee lists to every room each morning. Checking the list are (left to right) Carlene Shelton, Ann France and Tim Jessup.

Given By Office Pages

Pages gain valuable experience and give invaluable service by taking care of many office details necessary to the smooth running of our school.

Counting money, calling absentees and compiling lists, typing, mimeographing, answering the phone, receiving visitors, locating students' records, sorting mail, running errands, making announcements—all these are among the duties of the students who cheerfully give up their free time to help in the office.

Mr. Finch, faculty, and students receive important help from our efficient office pages.

Checking the class schedule are Jewell Wagoner and Jerry Nester who take over office duties for both third and fourth periods.

Totaling book fees are Lou Ann Holloway and Lucy Sydnor, busy fifth period pages.

Varied Activities Spark Tri-Hi-Y

Talent show, distribution of food and clothing to needy at Thanksgiving and Christmas, Monday morning devotions, Halloween carnival, Christmas play, Sweetheart's dance, group church attendance one Sunday each month, banquet at the end of the year— all these activities have made the Tri-Hi-Y one of the most active and most interesting clubs in our school.

Margaret Hiatt recalls the roaring 20's with her Charleston act for the talent show.

Mount Airy was host to the 1954 Interstate Tri-Hi-Y Conference. Club member Sylvia Hantzopoulos asks Mrs. Doggettif she will keep any of the convention girls.

Spanish Club Gives Overlook On Spanish America

One of our most interesting clubs is the Spanish club, open to all second year students of Spanish. Activities are both interesting and educational. Once a month members gather to learn and enjoy folk dances of Old Spain. Letters are exchanged with South American students, thereby strengthening our ties and improving our relations with our neighbors to the south. In April, club members are hosts to the first year students at a colorful Spanish costume party held in the band room.

Glee Club Furnishes Sweetest

The glee club plays a big roll in our high school life. 140 members meet daily in two separate classes. Forty members from the two classes compose a cut-chorus and meet one night a week for special practice. Beginning in November the glee club has a fifteen minute radio broadcast each Friday. Outside of school appearances, the glee club sings before church and civic groups. The main project of the club is the annual spring concert which draws attendance from our entire town.

MR. CHARLES JOHNSON Director

Mr. Johnson, music director, and Sandra Midkiff listen to the tape recording of one of the glee club's Friday morning concerts broadcast over a local radio station.

Music In Our Hills

A highlight of the annual band-glee club concert was Dickie Phillips' singing the negro spiritual "River Boy" in his rich baritone voice. The effective stage sets added to the beauty of the concert.

Growing Band Adds Pep

M.A.H.S. BAND

Robert Smith, 1954 student council president, presents Mr. Johnson, music director, a clock for use in the bandroom. The student council sponsored a special program to raise money to buy the clock.

And Prestige To M.A.H.S.

The band has increased from twenty members in '52 to fifty-three members this year. The band performed at all home games and traveled to Reidsville and Winston-Salem. Among other public appearances are concerts at city and county schools.

Johnny Martin, Charles Carter, and Rayno Wilson look after last minute details of fixing scenery for the concert.

Mr. Johnson seems pleased, as he takes a bow, that his concert is a smash hit.

Senior Play Furnishes

(Center) "Just a-min-ute-Mis-ter Pfeffer. Twen-ty-times and then I'm through-" says Dick Phillips, Vicky Lauderbeck, to Bud Warren, Mr. Pfeffer.

"I want someone to play with!" screams Junior to her father who is subjected to a world run by women when there is no time for motherhood.

Peak Enjoyment

The 1954 senior play, Ah! Men!, was a smash-hit in which acting and staging approached professional art.

Mr.Ramey lived up to his well-earned reputation for choosing interesting plays and casting them flawlessly.

The audience thoroughly enjoyed the sophisticated satire on a world ruled by women and its eventual overthrow by the men. The whole town talked about the swift-moving scenes, the enjoyable comedy, the fine acting, and the excellent costumes and set.

Director Arnold Ramey searched for a dramatic production "entirely different" from those of previous years. He chose one that took place 100 years hence when the women ruled the world and the men were pushing for "a cradle in every home and a child in every cradle."

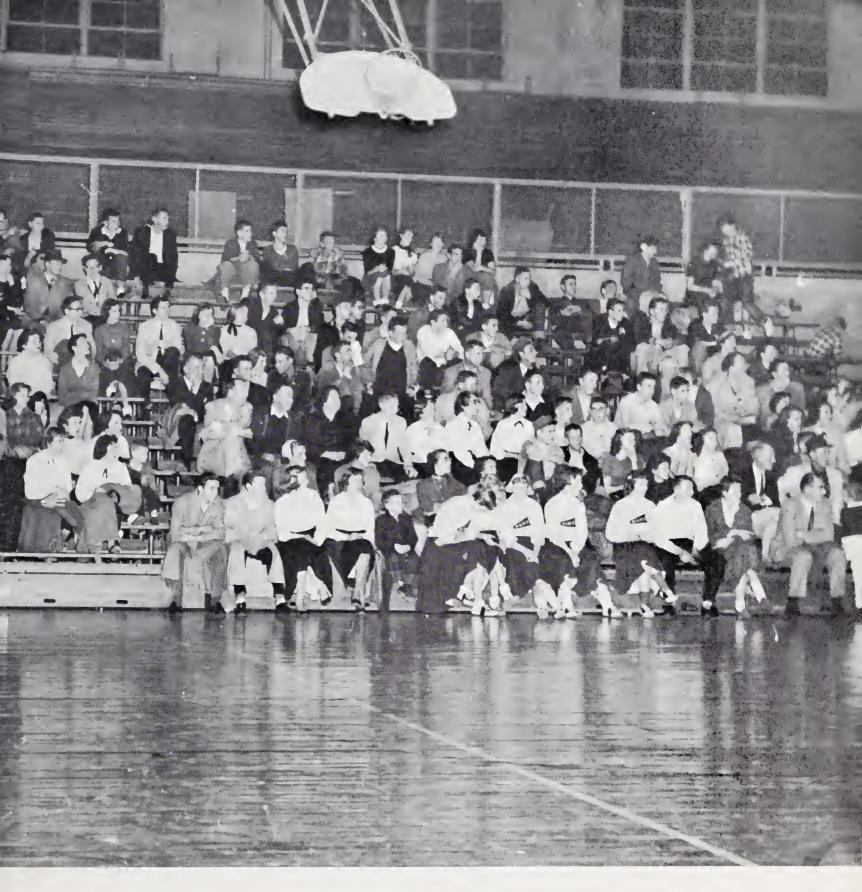

Mr.Ramey, director, talks to the cast of Ah! Men! (Seated) Janey Waggoner, Nancy Tharrington, Betty Royal, Bonnie Blue, Peggie Britts, Dickie Phillips, Barbara Fowler, Gayle Dobson, Glenda Snow, Jimmy Sparger, and Margaret Jones. Granite Bears End Season

Cheerleaders, led by Chief Juanita Dix, added color and interest to the games.

On August 15, fifty boys who stayed black and blue started sweating on the practice field to build a fine team.

Fans who have grown to expect good games from the Granite Bears were not disappointed. Only a heartbreaking upset by Hanes and a defeat by Reidsville marred the season's record.

Besides games won, the score books yield some remarkable personal records. Jack Taylor, extra point specialist, made good 24 conversions out of 27 tries. Rayno Wilson, outstanding all-time tailback, completed over three-fourths of the passes he attempted. Rayno received two high honors when he was voted by the public "Player of the Season" in the Mount Airy Times contest and "Most Popular Player" in the Bowman Electric contest. Bobby Ward played in the 1954 Shrine Bowl game at Charlotte.

This player from Mineral Springs couldn't hold on to his pass. Perhaps the look on Bob Tyndall's face made him drop it.

It seems it takes the whole Franklin team to bring down Sydnor. Other teams had similar difficulty this year.

The Winter Sports Season

With Bobby Ward, Burton Timmons, Owen Shelton, Jack Smith, James Reynolds and Melvin Marion returning from last year's varsity to give experience, the 1954 Bruins have an improved squad. Again the team has needed height as Ward, Smith, and Reynolds are well over six feet tall, and several other six-footers are coming up. The first games put us well on the winner's side and give hopes for a good season even though the league appears to be the fastest it has been in several seasons.

Owen Shelton scores for the Bruins against Blue Ridge.

Brings Basketball Excitement

The Mount Airy girls team has new hopes this season with lettermen Gaye Jackson, Kathleen Simmons, Shirley Clifton, Frances Shackleford, Jo Ann Smith, Joyce Ayers, Louise Tilley, Lou Ann Holloway and Nelda Clifton returning. The lack of height and new rules may prove handicaps. However, the Bruinettes started the season with a tie and a win.

The good '54 baseball club seemed unable to shake off a seventh inning jinx that ruined its record. Six games were lost by one run in the last inning.

This year the Bears are expected to growl louder than they have in recent years. With only one member lost by graduation, the squad should be greatly improved by experience.

Non-Varsity Sports Are Not Forgotten

With the completion of the high school gym, athletics for more students should increase with the 1955-56 term. At present Coach Frank Steed is doing a good job with the junior varsity in both football and basketball.

Intramural basketball developed a great deal of interest in 1954.

The Surry County track meet sponsored annually by the Lions' Club always brings out a large number of cinder-track enthusiasts. A large number of hopefuls are eyeing the '55 meet. (Mount Airy did not participate in the 1954 event.)

Room 6, captained by Joyce Ayers (center) captured girls' intramural basketball championship; room 108, captained by James Reynolds and Harvy Ayers won the boys' cup.

Coaches Steed and Coble have done a fine job on the Junior Varsity this year. Here a future star is pulled down after a 35 yard gain.
